During the past decade, HR coordinators, in addition to their role in human resource management, have become responsible for organizational leadership and for providing a vision for the future. Among other things, HR coordinators' activities contribute to top management's understanding of the organization's strategic direction and the inclusion of human factors in organizational planning. In this study, we examine the job satisfaction of HR coordinators and describe their views on their professional role. The respondents (n = 60) had an average tenure of 6.3 years in their current position. Our results show that when HR coordinators feel that they contribute to the strategic direction of the organization, they report higher levels of job satisfaction, whereas when they feel that their work has only a marginal impact on the organization's strategic direction, they experience lower levels of job satisfaction. We also found that a highly desirable organizational outcome positively affects HR coordinators' sense of job satisfaction. Finally, we found that the extent to which HR coordinators feel that they contribute to the strategic direction of the organization has a direct influence on their recommended levels of job resources.Q: Unable to set classpath for Excel file using ExcelPackage This might be a minor question but it doesn't have a straight forward answer. I am creating a Report out of some data and saving it as an Excel file for the first time. I am using the below code: String outputPath = HttpContext.Current.Server.MapPath("~/Reports/"); String fileName = @"report-00000.xlsx"; ExcelPackage xlPackage = new ExcelPackage(outputPath + fileName); Range headerRange = xlPackage.Workbook.Worksheets[1].Cells[1, 1]; f678ea9f9e
